He also acted on a provincial tour, but had to seep on account of ill health. While in England he wrote plays in collaboration with Tom Taylor and Charles Reade, and began a dramatization of one of George Eliors novels, with the assistance of the author; but this was never produced. The most important venture of his life was his experiment in the management of the Madison Square Theatre. He had high ideals in regard to possible stock company and to divide some 29 or 3 per cent of the net profits of the theatre among the leading actors in order to make them feel a more active interest in the welfare of the theatre and the prosperity of the plays. and the prosperity of the plays. He also intended to secure the best plays possible by paying high royalties to any and all writers who could produce works worthy of his theatre. He proposed something like 25 per cent as a suitable royalty. He copened the theatre in Appril, 1879, with his own play. "Aftermath, or, Won at Last."

In his desire and efforts to raise the stage, Mr. Mackaye had come in contact with Marshall H. Mailory, the Editor of "The Churchmun," and his brother, the Rev. George H. Mailory. He interested them in his plans, and they advanced money for the establishment of such a theatre as Mr. Mackaye desired to control. He slened a contract with Marshall H. Mailory, by the terms of which he mas to give him his entire services as author, actor, manager or director, the "entire product of his intellectual labor and skill," with the copyrights of his plays and any patents that he obtained. This contract was to be for ten years, from July 1, 1873, with a privilege of renewal, and Mr. Mackaye was to receive a salary of $5,600. Also, whenever the profits amounted to twice the amount expended by Mr. Mailory, with interest, Mr. Mackaye was to receive a quarter of the net profits in addition.

When the Madison Square Theatre was relitted and its double stage, which Mr. Mackaye introduced,—and which is still used, by the way—began to work, the house became famous all over the country. Mr. Mackaye's play "Hazel Kirke" was produced with a fine company and much attention to detail in the stage management, and it ran for 500 nishts. It was also played successfully by travelling companies. But trouble soon arose between Mr. Mackaye and the Mailorys, and their association was broken off. Mr. Mackaye charged that the management had been arbitrarily taken out of his hands; that there was difficulty in obtaining an accounting of receipts, that prices had been changed at the box office, and the hadlerys, and their association was broken of the hadlern supposed wished to remain unknown, had come forward and interfere

His father was Judge Daniel Elliott Huger, who was one of the early United States Senators from South Carolina, and he was a grandson, on his mother's side, of Arthur Mid-When a boy he attended school in this city, and to the South, he was graduated from the University of South Carolina. He then began the study of law, but abandoned it to become a planter. At the age of twenty-three years he married a Gaughter of Colonel James Satherland Deas, of South Carolina, and moved to Louisiana, where he stablished large sugar plantations on the Red River, and on the Island of Cote Blanche, in the Gulf of Mexico, having purchased the island for that purpose. In 1815 he went to the Seminoie War, throughout which he served with General Moore's North Alabama Brigade, of which he was Adjutant-General, with the rank of Major. He distinguished himself by making a perilous journey across Florida, through the heart of the Seminoie territory, with only ten men, while hearing important dispatches to General Scott at Tampa. On the breaking out of the War of the Rebellion he entered the Confederate Army, and after serving on the stagin of General Braxton Bragg with bravery for two years, he retired with the rank of Colonel. He was in many severe battles, but he was wont to say that the most desperate was the battle of Shiloh. After retiring he lived in New-Orleans, whence he came to this city in 1885.

Colonel Hur r was a Democrat, but took no active part in politics. His wife died in 1890. He had seven children, six of whom survive him. His daughter, Miss Meta D. Huger, and a mandaughter of the same name, were his only relatives here. His other children are Colonel Daniel H. The only hope is that she will fill and sink in deep water.

FOR BUFFALO CONSIDERATION.

ADDRESSED TO THE SENSE OF FAIR PLAY.

From The Elmira Advertiser, The passage of the Euffalo Reform bill in both houses of the Legislature, reminds "The Advertiser" that its esteemed contemporary of the Zephyr City, "The Huffalo Express," was very severe in its comments upon the Legislature during the early days of the session, and charged it with being the property, bedy, soul and breeches, of ex-Senator Platt.

ing the early days of the session, and charged it with being the property, body, soul and breeches, of ex-Senator Platt.

"The Advertiser" does not wish to shake a red rag in front of "The Express" horns, but it does wish to ask one or two fair questions.

If Mr. Platt is to be held responsible for the Legislature's actions in matters which "The Express" may not sanction, ought not "The Express" to rise up on an occasion like this and say that Mr. Platt caused the passare of the greatly-desired Buffalo bills and in the shape the people of that city wanted?

There is Speaker Malby, too. He has been charged by "The Express" with being (to put it mildly) a lleutenant of Mr. Platt's, elected to do Mr. Platt's bidding, etc. Should not "The Express" give Mr. Platt credit for the honest, square and business-like way in which the Speaker aided in the passage of these Buffalo measures? Senator Saxton, president pro-tempore of the Senate, is charged with being a Platt lleutenant, chosen to carry out Platt's orders in the upper house, etc. Should not "The Express" express its gratitude to Mr. Platt for the skillful manner in which President Saxton cent the Buffalo bills through to the executive chamber, incidentally walking over the prostrate form of "Blue-Eyed Billy" Sheehan as he did so?

Another thing, General Tracy was counsel for prostrate form of "Blue-Eyed Billy" Sheehan as he did so?

Another thing. General Tracy was counsel for the prosecution in the McKane case. He has been called another Platt man because he was favored by Mr. Platt when Harrison was looking for a Secretary of the Navy, was Mr. Platt's candidate for chairman of the Convention of 189, and was also counsel for the Fassett Investigating Committee in looking after the abuses and frauds of the New-York City Aqueduct contracts. If General Tracy had been counsel for Mr. McKane, what a hue and cry against Platt would have gone up, with "The Express," we fear, joining in? What proof it would have afforded of an alliance between Platt and Tammany! Therefore, would it not be consistent now for these ready denouncers of Mr. Platt on all occasions, to give credit to Mr. Platt on the consistent now for these ready denouncers of Mr. Platt on all occasions, to give credit to Mr. Platt on strong stand in favor of honest, decent elections?

These questions may appear to be facetious, but they are not so intended. They strike us as fair and dogical. They may, possibly, serve to show the inconsistency of much of the criticism passed upon Republicans by Republicans who do not happen to agree with them. Why cannot men disagree fairly and honestly? What is the excuse ready in mind to uphold men in waging bitter warfare upon each other, and breeding discord in what should be at this time of all times a reunited, harmonious party, marching on to certain victory?

DEFENDING MR. WIMAN. OPPOSITION TO CAPRIVI.

THE REICHSTAG'S ATTITUDE TOWARD THE BUDGET PROPOSALS.

CURTAILMENTS OF THE ARMY ESTIMATES-THE RUSSIAN TREATY - EMPEROR WILLIAM'S SPEECH TO THE BRANDENBURGERS.

(Copyright; 1834) By the United Press.) Berlin, Feb. 25.-The slow progress of the Reichstag Committee in examining the budget proposals makes it evident that nothing except the bourse tax will be settled before the Easter holidays. The Government newspaper organs, foreseeing the reduction on the proposed tobaccotariff, declare that any deficit in the estimates from this source will be met with a duty on alcohol. This declaration has not contributed to soothe the inclinations of the Reichstag to resist the Government demands. Altogether, the week opens doubtfully for Chancellor von Caprivi's

General Bronsart von Schellendorff, War Minister, justly charged the committee with can-Minister, justly charged the committee with can-celling expenditures which were absolutely necessary to the comfort of the army; but the Conservative committeemen merely replied that they meant to be economical throughout the budget debates. Hitherto the Conservatives have been the readiest supporters of the army estimates. With the disposal of the treaty their speedy return to their traditional allegiance to the Government may be expected.

the Government may be expected.

The Agrarian Conservative newspapers yesterday made their forcasts of the week's debate on the Russian treaty. They do not accept the defeat of the Opposition as certain. It is undoubtedly a sign of weakness that the semi-official press should recur to threats. It is also a symptom of the Government's anxiety that, according to yesterday's losby reports, Chancellor von Caprivi has positively promised the leaders of the Clericals to establish a Catholic department of the Ministry of Public Worship in exchange for their support.

change for their support.

The Emperor made only a short speech at the Brasdenburg banquet last evening. A few of his words, however, were intended to emphasize his interest in German agriculture and thus to repet the persistent outery of the Agrarians that they are being sacrificed to the trade and commercial classes. Before leaving the dining-room at 10 o'clock the Emperor conversed with Freiherr von Manteuffel and others about the prospects of the treaty. The opinion of the Emperor's immediate entourage shows that he considers the commercial treaty the wedge which is likely to split the Franco-Russian alliance. The tone of the Russian press certainly, favors such an opinion.

All are implicated with the Sicilian Socialist Deputy. De Felice, and the exiled Anarchist, Cipriani, in plotting to start a revolution in Italy. The plot had been formed with great deliberation and detail. Fires were to be set simultaneously in several parts of Napies. The workingmen were to be led into the middle of the city during the confusion caused by the fires, were to be indicated to pilinging the armories and shops stocked with weatsus, and, finally, after having been fully armed, were to be marked off to stir the rural districts to revolt. The plot was discovered by a detective, who pretended to be an Anarchist, and was allowed to buy for 40 centimes a ticket of admission to the Anarchist Club, where the conspirators met.

Dr. Jefferson Scales, who is in almost constant attendance at the young man's Catarrhs, Colds, Lung Disorders, etc., which Dr. Jayne's Expectorant as promptly cures when faithfully administered. has exerted good effect. Dr. Jefferson Scales, who is in almost constant attendance at the young man's bedstde, said last night that if he lived through the night he would have a chance to recover.

Some New-Brighton capitalists are organizing for the purpose of purchasing the plant of the Staten Island Light, Heat and Power Company, of which Mr. Wiman holds a large amount of stock. It is the intention of this syndicate to purchase not only the present plant and the company's rights and franchises, but also the unfinished power house, adjoining the Livingston station. The Light, Heat and Power Company is now in the hands of a receiver. It is thought that if this syndicate purchases the Wiman interest it will appreciate the value of the other assets of Mr. Wiman's estate, now in the hands of David Bennett King, the receiver.

WAYS TO SOLVE THE PROBLEM OF CHARITY

THE REV. DR. CHAMPERS PREACHES ON THE PRACTICAL ASPECTS OF THE QUESTION-GREEDINESS OF LANDLORDS LARGELY RESPONSIBLE.

In view of the great demands that are being made on charity in the present hard times, the Rev. Dr. Chambers, the pastor of Caivary Presbyterian Church, preached a sermon last night on the practical side of charity, or "The Best Anti-Poverty Society." He said in part: "There is a large class of people who are poor, but at the same time they preserve their integrity. They consider honest poverty no disgrace, and they think "Any one would suppose, on reading Mr. Nicoll's statement, that Mr. Wiman was a cashler or book-keeper of R. G. Dun & Co., and that he had no individual business relations of any kind, either with Mr. Dun or with the parties in whose favor the checks were drawn. The fact is, that for years Mr. Wiman has not only been a member of the HELPING AN EMPLOYMENT BUREAU. A popular concert, under the auspices of the Provisional Committee for the Aid of the Hungry, in aid of the Employment Bureau at the Cre m aid of the Employment Bureau at the Cre-morne Mission, was given last night in the Grand Central Palace, Forty-third-st, and Lexington-ave. An excellent programme was given to a crowded be use by the 7th Regiment Band, under the Jeader-ship of W. E. Rogers. Miss Nina Bertini Humphrys, sprane; Emil Sanger, bass, also appeared. Mr. Rogers gave a cornet solo. G. Wotherspoon was manager for the Provisional Committee.

Nathan Straus intends to start a beneficent movement in aid of the bereaved poor which may help the apparent purpose of prejuticing Mr. Wiman's to put an end to the extortionate charges made by case with the public before he had an opportunity undertakers in burying the dead. It has long been known that undertakers, as a rule, reap a large profit on every funeral that falls in their way. The poster the family the larger is the profit to the undertaker. Mr. Straus's scheme is simply to give the poor a funeral at exact cost price, that is for e researces have been exhausted; many are found or day without food and fuel. The distress is reasing dully. The association feels the great decision of the second of the second of the second or men or women. It exists asks contribu-ing for this purpose, Besides money, gifts of ching, especially smost, will be of Areat use, other applicants for work need clothing in order avail to miscives of positions which are offered, bees for children are also much needed.

A POSSUBLE SUIT BETWEEN THE SOCIETIES, The story was published yesterday of a prospective fight between the Society for the Prevention of Crime, of which Dr. Parkhurst is the head, and the Society for the Suppression of Vice, which is guided by Anthony Comstock, over the bequest of $7,50,000 left by Charles Bathgate Beck. Mr. of $55,000 left by Charles Bathgate Beck. Mr. Reck's will distinctly declared, the report went on to say, that the mney was to be left to the Society for the Prevention of Crime. According to the story, Mr. Reck really meant that the money should go to the Society for the Suppression of Vice, in which he had always been warmly interested, and not to Dr. Parkhurst's society, about which he knew next to nothing; but, that, like many other persona, he confounded the title of one society with that of the other. It was said that soil would be beaun before the Surrogate by the Society for the Suppression of Vice to have the bequest set aside on these grounds.

Dr. Parkhurst, when seen last night, declined to talk in the matter, and said that he had heard and knew nothing about it. He referred the reporter to Mr. Moss.

REPENTING OF A HASTY MARRIAGE.

Dayton, Ohio, Feb. 25,-Great surprise was caused in this city yesterday when Mrs. Caivin E. Pease filed a suit for divorce and alimony against her husband, the head of the Buckeye Iron and Brass husband, the head of the Buckeye from and Brane-Works, on charges of cruelty and abuse. The plaintiff was married to the defendant February 27, 1882, at Hot Springs, Ark. Mrs. Pease was visiting her millionaire uncle, C. F. Burns, of St. Paul, at that resort, when she met Mr. Pease. An acquaint-ance of one week developed into a marriage, a justice of the peace officiating.

DEMOCRATIC INCOMPETENCE IN CONGRESS THE PEOPLE HAVE ENOUGH.

QUALITY OF DEMOCRATIC LEADERSHIP

From The Boston Journal.

Malice and imbecility appear to be mingled in equal proportions in the Democratic leadership of to-day. CRIMINAL WASTE OF TIME.

CRIMINAL WASTE OF TIME.

From The St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

For weeks and months Washington has been deliged with petitions praying that whatever was done with the tariff it might be done quickly. Yet the linear wasted months over the Wilson bil. and now the Senate sub-committee is wrestling with it wilds the Senate itself devoted its days and nights to speeches on the legality of a bond issue which a few some men question, eulogizing the disgrace of the American name in Hawaii, and trying to make up its mind whether to side with Cleveland and patronage or Dave Hill and Maynard, the ballot-box thief. REBELLING AGAINST THEIR OWN RULES.

From The Buffalo Express.

The enforcement of the House rules have produced a greater rebellion than in the days of Spenker Reed, and, this time, the rebels are of the same political faith as the dominant authorities. A PARTY RENT UNTO FACTIONS.

From The St. Louis Globe-Democrat. From The St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

In the Senaie, too, the Democrats are compelled to hold a caucus with the hope of getting the party into line. There is likely to be as disgraceful and demoralizing a wrangle in the party in that branch on the tariff as there is now in the House on the silver question. On no great issue whatsoever is there a semblance of harmony in the Democracy.

HELPLESS WITHOUT "REED RULES." From The Springfield Union.

From The Springfield Union.

The Democrats of the House of Representatives would give a quarter of a dollar apiece if they had never raised such a row about "Reed's rules." Under the present rules the House cannot transact business if a large majority is disposed to offer obstructions, and it is particularly galling to the majority of the Democrats to see members of their party sitting in the House and refusing to vote.

A BEAUTIFUL EXAMPLE OF STATESMAN-SHIP. From The Minneapolis Tribune.

Unable to secure the attendance of much over one-half of its own members, the Democratic majority is compelled to make arrests of Congressmen and drag them upon the floor of the House by main force. It is a beautiful example of statesmanship. It is a Democratic Washington Birthday picture.
